DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

1. Claim 17 objected to because of the typo error in the phrase "oxidiation".
Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102 and § 103

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 17-20 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Yamanaka (US 5,919,422). Yamanaka's invention, a reference cited by Applicant, is directed to titanium dioxide photo-catalyzer. Yamanaka discloses in Fig. 11 that a purification system comprises a film 104 of photocatalysts of titanium dioxide disposed between two light-emitting diodes 105 in a duct 101. Since the light-emitting diodes 105 emit UV to irradiate the titanium dioxide film 104, wherein the emitted UV activates the titanium dioxide film 104 as a strong oxidizing catalyst and since the titanium dioxide film 104 comprises a plurality of photocatalyst, the titanium dioxide film 104 comprises the recited first and second photocatalysts. If there is a difference, it will be process limitation such as the recited UV light from the first UV light source and the second UV light source causing photocatalytic oxidation by the first catalyst. However, it has been held that "apparatus claims cover what a device is, not what a device does", Hewlett-Packard Co. v. Bausch & Lomb Inc., 15 USPQ 2d 1525.

5. Claims 1-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yamnaka '422 in view of Yang et al. (US 6,147,367). Yamanaka as applied above further discloses in Figs. 2, 3 and 33 embodiments where a fluid purification system comprises the recited first layer and photocatalyst. The difference between Yamanaka and the above claims is the detailing of the light emitting diode. Yang shows that light-emitting diode is known as a junction diode formed by an epitaxial P-type layer and an epitaxial N-type layer on a heavily doped semiconductor compound base (col. 1, lines 19-35). Since it is known that a semiconductor base is doped to form on light emitting diode, Yamanaka's light-emitting diode would also be based on a doped semiconductor substrate. If not, the selection of any of known equivalent substrates to form light-emitting diode would have been within the level of ordinary skill in the art.
